

Hotel Spa Couvent des Minimes: the alchemist from Provence

• 4 Aug, 2009 • Catégorie: Historical getaway, One hotel a day, Out of the city, Provence, Romantic getaway •

For those who dream to be in the middle of nowhere, the Couvent des Minimes in the Haute Provence is the perfect place to live an experience where serenity and luxury rime perfectly. Here, there is no stress; we let ourselves get transported by the attracting odours of the botanic garden. The Couvent des Minimes is an alchemist, a sensorial magician.

As an old convent that used to take nuns, the hotel associates medieval and design architecture. The rooms but also the dining room still have the ancient ceilings made of white rock and alcoves that keep the place pure. White with pastel tones, the rooms offer an elegant and simple decoration.

During your walkabouts around the domain, you will sometimes see a discrete orange patio where is hidden an aromatic garden, on a light water basin surrounded by perfumed iris rosebush and on small walls covered by cypresses from Italy, palm and almond trees. A true initiatory experience, the Couvent des Minimes also offers to satisfy your taste buds thanks to two restaurants including the Cloître, a very famous gastronomic restaurant. At the Occitane spa, you will be able to make the most of honey, verbena, lemon or lavender based cares from the property. A dream while you are awake.

Rates: from 160€ for the Minimes classic room 1275€ for the Maison de Mane with two bedrooms.
